There is no doubt that trust legis-lation will be one of the most import-ant subjects before the coming Demo-cratic Congrees," said Judge Clayton. "Public opinion has come to place the tariff and the trusts in the very fore-front of questions urgently requirins attention and remedy.

The tariff remedy is a plain one downward revision. But the trust remedy is not so plain, for many plans are proposed and the trust evil is one of vast magnitude and ramification. I do not think it will be necessary to embark on the sea of new legislation. What is needed is the enforcement of the law as it now stands and supplemental legislation strengthening its deexisting law and remedying its de-

It will be along these general lines that the Judiciary Committee will proceed when it takes up the trust question in January.

An income tax also is being looked forward to as one of the important measures to be framed. Thirty-four States have ratified the income tax amendment to the Constitution, and the votes of two more States will suffice to make the amendment a part of the organic law. The income tax-law of 1994 was added as an amendment to the Wilson tariff bill and members of the committee said to-day that such a measure probably would be considered as a part of the tariff and revenue-producing legislation.

SYSTEM IS INCOMPLETE

Changes Are Necessary.

Philadelphia. Pa. December 5—
Booker T Washington was one of the speakers at the opening session here to-day of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education Washington said that the public are system as it has been developed is based on the theory that a pupil can learn only one thing at a time. The people of the country, he added have yet to learn that it is possible to teach a man's mind and his hands at the same time. It was generally agreed among the several speakers that further development and reorganization of school six ment and reorganization of school six ment and reorganization of school six moving. Data was presented to show that schools turn out most of their young. Data was presented to show that schools turn out most of their pupils without a definite aim or much practical knowledge and that pupils are compelled to trust to blind luck in seeking a livelihood.

Miss Thurston struggled hard drawing upon every resource of her skill and experience to assist her in supporting the inert mass of "comedy raddled, like the Old Man of the Sea, about her neck, and, in spite of her handicap she managed to win the applause of the house for her personal efforts as well as the ungrudging admiration of those who realized what she was seeking to evercome.

The plece is an incoherent farce, noisy and forced, unredeemed by a spark of originality, and unlightened by a glimmer of wit.

And the company from the man who, last season, buried "Blackle Daw for us, up and down the list of characters, is incompetant indeed, if it were not for Miss Thurston herself, it is doubtful if The Love Affeir would pass muster at the Bijou. The one setting shown was excellent, and the "lighting effects were particularly well handled.

There will be two performances to day, the engagement closting to night. Miss Thurston struggled hard, draw-

Mysterious Tragedy Disclosed When Hotel Door Is Battered In.

Nearby a man lay dying, while the third occupant of the room—a woman who had registered as the man's wife-seemed unable in any way to account for the tragedy.

The trio reached the hotel on Monday night. The girl who was found dead to day registered as "Miss Minals Turner."

The man gave his name as James York, of Huntington, W. Ve. and the second woman registered & Mrs York.

They did not appear about the hotel in the two days after their arrival, and the hotel proprietor determined to break down the doct to their room.

Mrs. York seemed not to know that the Turner girl was dead, while York was so seek he could make no statement. Coroner

Mistaken Diagnosis-Doctors Guess Wrong Again

About five years ago I wrote to you that I had been a terrible sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles, and that my physician informed me that my left kidney was in such condition that there was no hope for my recovery. I was advised to try your Swamp-Root as a last resort, and after taking four fifty-cent size bottles, I passed a gravel stone which weighed ten grains. I afterwards forwarded you this gravel stone. Have had no return of any trouble since that time, and cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful preparation. Swamp-Root, which cures after physicians fail.

THOMAS S. ARMISTEAD

APMISTEAD—The funeral services of THOMAS S. ARMISTEAD were held yesterday noon at Centenary Churca, of which he was a member, in the presence of a large crowd of his friends. Standing for all that was clean, honorable and truthful in his life and business, he was loved and admired in a way that is selsom seen, not only by those nearest to him, but by every one whose life he touched. His helping hand stretched out to those in trouble, his judgment and advice solved many a difficulty. Left an orphan in boshood and reared by a devoted uncle and zunt he faced every stage of life in a thorough, straightforward way that laid the foundation of a successful life, cut short in its prime. His long, painful illness was faced with a patience and fortitude indicative of his character, and at the last with the resignation and calm of a Christian.
